Letter of Partnership:

To whom it may concern:

My company, GPS Strategies Ltd is a Digital Media company that focuses on installing Digital Media Networks in health and wellness centres across North America. As part of our due diligence it was very important that we found and created a partnership with a company that had software expertise and a hardware supplier and installer network across North America. This was and is vital to our continued growth.

Our company represents many national brands with advertising agreements and it was very important that we found and partnered with a company that the ability to deliver on every level of software and hardware services that we required consistently.

Our partnership with Jeremiah and his ENS team has been a very successful move for us and they've met every challenge we've thrown at them over the past eighteen months. We've also watched as they continue to improve and increase their services to ensure we get the services we require.

We are preparing to launch a major US expansion and when we were developing our business plan our supply chains were a great point of discussion. Based on history and their continued growth with services we are very confident that ENS will meet every challenge we throw at them.

If you have any questions or wish to discuss our relationship with ENS further I would be very pleased to have that discussion.

Sincerely

Perry Logan
